

OBSERVE • MAP • ADVOCATE

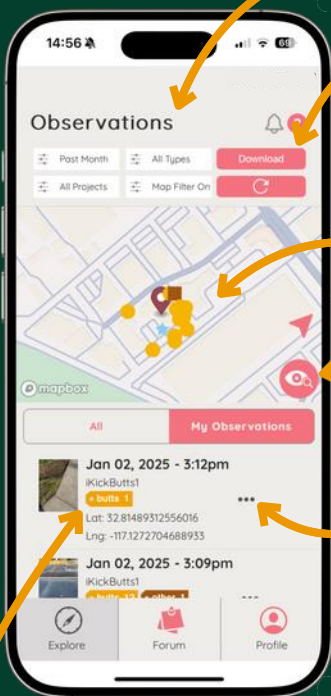

MAKE A DIFFERENCE

About iKickButts

Eliminate pollution from tobacco, e-cigarette, and cannabis (TEC) waste in your community with the new community science app from the Center for Tobacco and the Environment at San Diego State University.

Whether you're an individual, part of a community group, organization, school class, government agency, or a researcher, this app provides the tools you need to collect and share data about TEC waste to support efforts to protect the public from pollution.

Features

Filter and list observations

Download data and reports of TEC waste findings

Map where you find TEC waste

Photograph TEC waste you find in your community

Share images of TEC waste with your community on social media to raise awareness

Classify and count TEC waste

Learn about the impact of TEC waste on public health and the environment

Promote community events

Organize new or join existing community science projects in your neighborhood

Use our guide to identify TEC waste

Find elected officials and local resources

Advocate for policy change to protect the environment and public health from TEC waste pollution

Learn More

Visit our website at ikickbutts.org to learn more about the app or send us an email at contact@ikickbutts.org if you have any questions.

